Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

"The King has fallen in love and quit. Long live the King." Edward the Eighth of England has abdicated to become Mrs. Simpson's No. 3. The Duke of York succeeds to the throne as George the Sixth. He has all the stodgy virtues that have brought the British Empire to world dominance. Edward, who prefers almost any kind of headgear to the crown, has discarded the gilded bauble for a bowler hat. The accouterments of royalty he has handed, after the fashion of elder brothers in humbler spheres, to the next youuger, whether they fit or not. It all constitutes a drama, epochal, compelling, which within a brief time will be the theme and plot of many a Hollywood film to stir sentimental Americans to tears or laughter.

Those who anticipate some exceptional demonstration on the part of the British people as a result of this unseating and re-seating will probably be disappointed. For the common run of English folk are perhaps a bit more philosophical, materialistic, phlegmatic and prudent than the average American. Edward, their king, was given his choice, the throne or the woman, and he chose the woman. Thus endeth the first lesson. Edward's Friday afternoon broadcast was so conciliatory, healing in its tactfullness, and withal so manly, with a touch of sentiment when he referred to the "woman I love," that it undoubtedly allays all fears of further confustion and threat of rioting.

No American citizen who respects the sanctities of domestic life, the rights of privacy in matters affecting heart, hearth and home, will envy the goldfish bowl existence of royalty in England. To be obliged, or to feel compelled to broadcast even an illusion to his love affair, in order to maintain the British peace, is a thought utterly repughant to every self-respecting citizen in this country, and probably in England. But imagine the drama the playwrights of the world will make of it in years to come.

Accustomed as all editors are to "the outrageous slings of fortune" especially in political matters, we had solemnly resolved to let nature, that is to say, a government elected by a vast majority of the people, take its course. The writer of this column damned and overwhelmed in the last election determined to wait and see what happens, and so far as politics were concerned, to wait in silence. We are not breaking the resolution now. We are merely quoting Senator Carter Glass, Virginian and Democrat, who at a dinner of the Southern Society in New York the other day alluded to the fact that President Roosevelt had once called him an "unreconstructed rebel."

Then Carter Glass told this story. "Jube Early was an unreconstructed rebel to the day of his death. He used to come frequently into my newspaper office and one day he said to me: 'Carter, I had hoped to repent of my past sins in the hope that when I died I would go to heaven and see Robert E. Lee. But I have changed my mind. I want to go to hell and see the devil burn those Yankee uniforms off Joe Wheeler and Fitz Lee.' (Two exconfederate generals who served the United States in the Spanish American war).

"I had thought," continued Senator Glass, "that I would like to go to heaven and commune with the spirits of Patrick Henry, Clay and Calhoun, Grover Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson. But, like old Jube, I seem disposed to change my mind, and go, temporarily, to the other place to see the devil when he burns the strange uniforms off of some people who think they are Democrats but don't believe in the reserved rights of states or the checks and balances provided by the Constitution of the United States, but who are mere opportunists and think the majority is always right."

2500 TO BE STRICKEN FROM GREAT REGISTER

In the county clerk's office, Deputy Ralph Deeble is busy purging the great register. Those entries which show that registrant has not voted during the past year are thrown out. Deeble stated that from Nevada township approximately 350 will be thrown out of the register, while from the county it is expected that 2500 will be dropped.

BLACK WIDOWS FOND OF BITING SAN JUAN MAN

E. M.. McMillon, trapper and forestry employe of North San Juan was yesterday bitten by a black widow spider. This is the fourth bite he has received from this venomous spider species, and so far from being immune, the effect of the bite was to cover his arms and chest with huge blotches. He was bitten on te arm yesterday morning when he slipped on an old coat that he had not worn for months.

McMillon formerly lived on the Washburn ranch in a log cabin. While there he was bitten three times by black widows and finally moved out bringing his belongings with him. It is believed he had not worn the coat since the spiders drove him from the Washburn ranch several weeks ago, and the spider is supposed to have lodged in one of the sleeves. McMillon, to whom black widow bites are an old story, refused to have a doctor called, declaring that by the time a doctor arrived from Nevada City, he would either be dead or on the road to recovery. He is still ill but the swelling is receding and he expects to pull through again.

SUN DIAL DONATED TO SCOUT ORGANIZATION

Louis Jerome, of the Brass, Bell and Broze Foundry of San Francisco, is donating to the Scout organization of Nevada City a handsome bronze sun dial. Today he brought the pattern for it to Dr. C. W. Chapman and left it with him for appropriate wording around its perimeter.

It is proposed to place the sun dial on a boulder in Pioneers Park in the vicinity of Seaman's Lodge which has now been turned over to the Scouts, Cubs and Camp Fire Girls.

DINNER DANCE FOR ROTARIANS

DEATH SUMMONS JAMES DOOLING

News has reached Nevada City friends of the death of James Francis Dooling, 72 years, at his farm home in Antelope Valley, western Colusa county on December 1, 1936. Born at Moores Flat he was the last of 10 children. With his family, as a small child, he moved to Stone Corral, in 1868. This was a pioneer midway camp between the foothills and Colusa on the Sacramento river. Early settlers believed the plains to be desert except where springs could be found.

The Dooling family operated their mine known as Doolings Point at Moores Flat taking out a small fortune. later selling out to the Chinese, who also made a fortune. It was about this time Banker William Cummings of the town of Moores Flat was killed by highwaymen north of Nevada City while enroute to this city with bullion. The highwaymen, Patterson and Dorsey, escaped and sold the gold in Louisana, one going to his home town in Indiana and becoming a successful lumber merchant, until caught. h

James Dooling leaves a wife and three sons, Eugene, Raymond and Earl Dooling. He was hard working and energetic and retired from active work several years ago.

The late Maurice Dooling, famed jurist and orator, of San Francisco was a cousin. The Dooling family is well known in this city.

NEW FIRE TRUCK CARRIES LARGE WATER SUPPLY

Fire Chief Tony Rore reports that during a recent test the fire pump on the new fire truck in a recent test by the fire department, gave strong steady stream of water through a 1½ inch fire hose for a period of seven and one-half mintues from the water stored in the truck tank.

The new truck, built mostly of equipment owned by the fire department, is built on a new Indian chassis form bought from Miners Foundry and the body was built on this by the Miners Foundry and Supply Co. This truck may be used anywhere the truck may go. Hose from the truck may also be hooked to a hydrant in the regular manner. The cost of building the body is $1800. The firemen have given a note to the bank for half of this amount and hope to liquidate it with receipts frim the Annual New Years Ball, so are looking forward to greater support at this annual affair than ever before.

FUGITIVE IN NET IN FAST TIME

Following a telephone call from Chief of Police Darrel La Fortune of Marysville, describing Granville Loomis, a refugee from justice wanted for both burglary and forgery, Sheriff Carl Tobiassen yesterday took a tip that the wanted man was thumbing his way out of the state and drove at once to Truckee.

Arrived there the sheriff had waited a short time, when a car drove in with Loomis at the wheel. Loomis said he was on his way to Reno. The sheriff invited him to change his mind and come back to Nevada City. It developed that a deputy sheriff of Plumas county was the owner of the car, driving back by way of Reno to Quincy. He had picked up Loomis, who was carrying a small stachel, and being tired had asked Loomis to drive. He was very much surprised when his driver was arrested. La Fortune this morning came and took Loomis back to Marysville with him.

Loomis was arrested here during the Fourth of July celebration for beating his wife.

YELLOWJACKETS ARE BEATEN BY WHEATLAND

The Nevada City High School A and B Yellowjacket squads traveled to Wheatland Friday night to play the A and B teams of that city.

Although the local squads lost both games, they showed splendid spirit in both games and great promise for future entanglements. This was a practice game and every player that traveled to the scene of the contest was put in the game.

The A game was lost to the Wheatland team by the score of 44 to 28. Cliff Hoff, local hoopster, played the outstanding game and piled up most of the points for the locals. Lacy Jones, Todd Bonner, Phil Joyal and Tony Perez also showed good playing for the Yellowjackets.

The B game was lost by the locals only by one point. The final score was 20-19. "Rob" Graham, Karl Kopp, and Ellard Gates were the outstanding players for this game.

Both teams are fast and are sure to pile big scores for the high school in the future.

The first league game for the local hoopsters will be against Grant union at North Sacramento.

THIEF RUNS OUT OF GAS AND CAR IS RECOVERED

H. J. Starr of Grass Valley rejoiced Friday when he was able to recover his car only a few hours after it had been stolen. Deputy Sheriff Bill Woods, appraised of the theft, identified the thief as Art Wilson, well known in Nevada City. He began looking for Wilson at the "jungles," missed him there, but found the car on the Colfax road about 3 o'clock Friday morning. Wilson had run short of gas and reurned to town to buy it. He had 50 cents in his possession which had been stolen with a woman's purse in a Nevada City resort. Deputy Sheriff Woods called a tow car and brought the stolen car into Grass Valley. He is now looking for Wilson. Wilson's partner Pete Knight was also detained for questioning.

But after remaining at the Landis Clinic for an hour or so regained his faculties, and was able to accompany his wife home.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Braithwaite after a tour of the northwest, middle west and southwest, during which they visited Texas Centennial Exposition, have returned to their home in North San Juan.

The highway short wave radio was used in the broadcast to apprehend the hit and run driver but while they are still on the lookout for him they have only the meager detail that the car was a dark or black sedan driving south on Auburn street.

GIVE! BRING XMAS CHEER TO CHILDREN

The Community Christmas tree offers a fitting opportunity to give for charity. A charity that will gladden the hearts of children in this community, children who would have a bleak and lonely Christmas without your aid.

The Community tree is sponsored and planned by the Civic Club but your personal contribution is needed to carry it through. All the money donated for this cause is used for Christmas cheer for unfortunate children of the community who otherwise would have a very lonesome time Christmas day. Should there be more donated than is actually needed for the Christmas boxes the surplus will be turned over to the Benevolent Society for charity to use throughout the year.

Make your own Christmas happy by giving. Give to children of the community who need your help.

Please leave donations of nonperishable food and of clothing at the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Friday morning, December 18.

Cash donations, please leave, now, at the Morning Union Office, the Nevada City Nugget Office, Colley's Confectionery or Foley's Confectionery.

How Many Times

"How many times," one commentator asks, "is the United States going to have to save the world for democracy?"

That's a pertinent question right now—or at least so one would be led to believe by the attitude of one of the two armed camps into which Europe is dividing.

In their hour of need, the democracies across the water, perhaps with the aid of some wish-thinking, have mistakenly taken the President's Pan-American peace address to mean that this nation might pitch in with them if they get into a fight with the dictators.

So they're bringing out of the closet the old skeleton that spoke the old piece about saving the world for democracy. A French Nationalist on a lecture tour here is spreading the doctrine. Foreign debtors are hinting at negotiations so they may borrow more money for guns. And altogether there seems to be blossoming a new, almost frantic friendship for America.

American sympathies are unquestionably with the democracies. But as for fighting on foreign soil to make the world safe for democracy—well, we're on to that slogan, this time. It is not likely that any amount of soft-soaping will ever again inveigle us into sending money and goods and armed forces into actual combat across the water.

Once, eighteen years ago, we saved the world for democracy. And just look at Europe today.Contributed.
